

FAQs

What is Gigabit Internet?

Gigabit internet is 1000 megabits per second (Mbps). Studies have shown that the average residential internet connection in the United States is just over 25 Mbps, so gigabit internet is nearly 40 times faster than the average U.S. connection. Among other things, gigabit internet enables streaming video from multiple devices, online gaming without any lag, uploading everything to the cloud for backup and transferring large files instantaneously. With gigabit internet, you spend less time waiting and more time enjoying.

What makes the Velocity experience unique?

Velocity is more than just speed; it symbolizes the technology experience available today, and the capability to power ideas of tomorrow. No matter what the future brings, having a direct fiber connection ensures that you will be able to experience it.

Fiber services also have increased reliability over other methods of service delivery because they are less susceptible to inclement weather, such as lightning, and easier to maintain remotely. Potential network issues can be identified and resolved seamlessly for you.

The aesthetics are another benefit of fiber services. With fiber you do not have any large green boxes in your front yard that you have to hide. Fiber pedestals are completely flush with your grass, so you can keep your front yard looking great and free of clutter.
